

NATIONAL POLITICS DOMINATE THE SITUATION IN WASHINGTON

Simon Stern, President of the Commercial Club, Returns From Capital Optimistic Over Statehood.

PRESIDENT WILL NOT EXERCISE VETO POWER

Still optimistic over the outcome and confident that President Taft will not veto the Flood amendment adopted by the senate and concurred in by the house, Simon Stern, president of the Albuquerque Commercial club returned to the city on the California limited at 11 o'clock today, after spending ten days in Washington working for statehood for New Mexico.

"I would have remained in Washington and continued to do what I could for statehood," said Mr. Stern today, "but I found that the situation is dominated by national politics and that things will have to work themselves out as the big politicians want them."

Referring to the statehood question as it appears today, Mr. Stern said that he is firmly of the opinion that the president will not veto the Flood amendment.

"Spending with the president before the Flood amendment was passed held me that he would not sign the amendment if it were adopted," said Mr. Stern. "There is a wide distinction between not signing a bill and vetoing it as everybody knows. In my opinion the president is not stupid so that he can veto the statehood bill with the Flood amendment attached. The situation in congress is not controlled by Republican stand-patters, but by Democrats and insurgents. My own private belief, after observing things in Washington, is that a compromise will be effected and that a bill will be drafted and passed before congress adjourns that the president can sign."

Continuing Mr. Stern took up the question of state's rights, which he said has been the basis of the whole right.

The action of congress in passing the Flood amendment was based on the assumption of state rights. The senators and representatives, as indicated by their vote on the amendment, believe that if Arizona wants the recall of the judiciary, it should be given to them. Many of the senators who voted for the Flood amendment are not personally in favor of the recall of judges, but believe in state rights and are of the opinion that the people of Arizona should know what they want in their constitution."

Mr. Stern is hopeful of statehood news, having sat in the gallery in the senate for three consecutive days listening to speeches on the Flood amendment by many of the senators. Mr. Stern still hopes for statehood at this session, believing that the Democrats will not consent to have New Mexico come in automatically later, leaving Arizona out.

MRS. P. BALDASARRI FATALLY BURNED BY EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE

Woman Attempts to Start Fire in Gasoline Stove and is Enveloped in Flames Which Inflict Terrible Injuries.

MAY POSSIBLY LIVE THREE OR FOUR DAYS

Living on a white board in a room in St. Joseph's sanatorium, Mrs. Baldasari, wife of Pacifico Baldasari, 34-year-old chef, is slowly dying as the result of terrible injuries sustained last evening at 6 o'clock, when she was finally burned, following an explosion of gasoline which occurred at the Baldasari home, Twelfth street and New York avenue. Mrs. Baldasari is today suffering greatly from her burns which cover nearly every part of her body. The unfortunate woman was attempting to start a fire in a gasoline stove in the kitchen or her home when the explosion occurred. She was soon enveloped in flames. Mrs. Baldasari rushed to the street, screaming for assistance, the wind fanning the flames. People traveling along Twelfth street attempted to throw the frantic woman to the ground and subdue the flames, but so great was her pain that she fought freely from those who attempted to rescue her. She was finally overcome and the flames extinguished, revealing that the poor woman had been terribly burned and scorched, the flesh in many places being literally cooked. First aid to the injured was rendered, following which she was arrested and John Journe, territorial traveling auditor, has gone to Tucson this afternoon to go over the books kept while Chenuant was in office, it being alleged that a shortage of $10,000 has been found. It is understood that friends of Chenuant have recently made good a discrepancy of $10,000, the finding of which is said to have been the cause of Chenuant's retirement from office. The assertion is made that the last alleged shortage was caused by Chenuant's sending a receipt for taxes to the Rock Island railway company and then mailing the stub "void."
